WEDDING. Katz-Pressman.

At the synagogue of the Congrega-tion Sons of Israel, where the bride's father, Davis Pressman, is one of the most influential and substantial members, the marriage of Morris I. Katz of Springfield and Miss Heien I. Press-man of this city took place Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock before several hundred relatives and invited guests. The ceremony was impressively per-formed by the Rev. M. Stamm, rabbi of the synagogue, assisted by Rev. Lip-man Katz of Hartford, a relative of the man Katz of Hartlord, a relative of the groom.

Those who stood up with the young couple were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Pressman of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Rafael Sagalyn of Springfield, Mass. The bride was becomingly gowned in white crape de chine with imported trimmings, and carried roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by the four bridesmalds. The wedding ceremony.

The wedding ceremony was followed by a bountiful supper and a reception at Froehlichkeit hall, where all the local friends and many from out of town were gathered to express their good wishes to the newly married couple. At the supper hour nearly 100 telegrams were read, coming from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, New Haven, Hartford, Soring-field and Seattle, Wash. On behalf of the Congregation Sons of Israel a beautiful gold plated mirror was presented to the newly married couple, Nathan S. Penich making the gift with brief, well chosen words. A large number of handsome gifts have been received from their many friends. The evening closed with dancing, which was continued till a late hour, the music being by Utchenik's orchestra of five places from Hartford.

Funeral of Jeffrey Watson.

The funeral of Jeffrey Watson was held from the home of his son, Herbert Watson, on Pautipaug Hill Tuesday at 12 o'clock. The officiating clergyman was Rev. C. H. Hatch of Baltic. There were many handsome flowers. The bearers were Herbert Watson, Walter Watson, a grandson, Charles Mulkins, a son-in-law, and George G. Grant. The burial was in the family lot in the Pautipaug cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Hatch read a committal service.

The principal witness for the state was the balliff of the borough of Jewsett City, who told of going to Later Fleur's home and there finding in the dress suit case three full pints of whiskey, a jug of whiskey, one pint of rum and three or four bottles of beer. La Fleur was the defense's principal witness, denying absolutely keeping liquor at home for sale.

The jury returned soon with the verdict of not guilty. Attorney Desmond defended the accused.

Old Rooth Shop, Bullt in 1824, Bein Road Received Its Name-Persons

A small building on the easterly side of the green, now being torn down, has much of historic interest. Miss Perkins says: "Loman Roath built it as a shop in 1824 and in 1827 sold it to Joseph Hantington. It was used as a schoolheuse before 1823, then occupied for some time as a law office by Judge Jabes W. Huntington, who lived in the house now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Kelley." Miss Elaanor Mackie next used it for her private school. When Dr. H. P. Arms became pastor of the First church this was his study. Twenty-five years ago the Rev. C. T. Weltzel established a boys reading roem and library which lasted a few years. Of late it has not been used.
